ENMAX appoints new EVP and Chief Human Resources Officer

Calgary, Alta. - ENMAX Corporation is pleased to announce today that Patricia (Pat) MacDonald joins the organization effective December 9, 2015 as our new Executive Vice President & Chief Human Resources Officer.

Pat will lead ENMAX's People, Communication & Engagement shared service organization and brings more than 25 years of senior leadership experience in human resources, employee relations, compensation & benefits, leadership development, communications and community involvement.

Before joining ENMAX, Pat served as Vice President, Human Resources for Encana Corporation. During her successful tenure with Encana, she was accountable for the organization's extensive human resources, communications and community involvement functions. Prior to joining Encana on inception in 2009 following the merger between PanCanadian Energy Corporation and Alberta Energy Company Ltd, Pat had served in a series of senior human resource vice president roles.

Throughout her career, Pat has excelled at supporting significant organizational change and transformation while ensuring teams and people have the resources, tools and support needed to succeed in their day to day work. During her career, Pat has held accountability for other corporate administrative services such as information services, communications, office services, and community involvement. She holds a Canadian Human Resource Professional (CHRP) designation, Directors College HR & Compensation Certification and is a member of the Human Resources Institute of Alberta.

"The success of our team members and our communities is vital to the success of ENMAX, and I am excited to have an accomplished leader like Pat join our organization," said Gianna Manes, ENMAX Corporation President & CEO. "Under Pat's leadership, I am confident that the ENMAX employee and community experience will become even stronger."
